Dear friends,

The engine of all human development is affection and love; for our own life and the lives of those around us. What gives us this love for life cannot be reduced to money, stability, food or work. The desire for living comes through an experience of shared humanity even when times are tough.

We at AVSI-USA continue to embrace our primary task of staying with others who face difficult circumstances, offering that positivity and sure hope which we had the opportunity to experience in our lives. In 2016, those “others” were Syrian and Iraqi refugees, the battered poor of south Haiti, earthquake victims in Ecuador and thousands of families just struggling to make ends meet and give opportunities to their children. This report offers a glimpse into what we managed to do, together.

Ezio Castelli and Jackie Aldrette
AVSI-USA President                                           AVSI-USA Managing Director

> PEOPLE FOR DEVELOPMENT: A UNIQUE APPROACH

1. Focus on the Person - We cherish the human dignity of each person we encounter. We understand that the individual cannot be reduced to a social category or limitation such as poverty, disease, conflict or disability.

2. Starting from the Positive - Every person and community represents a potential resource for development, regardless of vulnerabilities. We look for local initiatives and solutions and find ways to strengthen those.

3. Working Together - The approach to project planning and implementation starts from a relationship with people. Together we implement activities that empower the local community and lead to mutual growth.

4. Development of Civil Society and Subsidiarity - Key to sustainability is the capacity of civil society and individuals to respond to needs and opportunities. We recognize and support the creation of local institutions integrated in the social context and we transfer skills and knowledge to enhance local initiatives and delivery of basic services.

5. Partnership - The challenges of extreme poverty and marginalization are too great for anyone to confront alone. We forge partnerships with public, private, local and international partners in order to create synergies and optimize resources for lasting results.
On the following pages, we present a cross-section of the scope of our work in relation to the greater AVSI network, present in 30 countries. In particular, this year we highlight projects funded by the United States Government and AVSI-USA partners in various countries.
COUNTRIES, PROJECTS
AVSI AND THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

For the past 20 years, AVSI has partnered with the U.S. Government, developing innovative, person-centered programs that have had long-lasting impact on communities. Our dedicated staff brings depth of local knowledge and understanding that results in context specific programming and effective engagement of local actors and resources.

To U.S. Government and other partners, AVSI provides
1) on the ground, local knowledge;
2) capacity and flexibility to partner in various ways; and
3) a strong commitment to people and, therefore, to quality in everything we do.

AVSI-USA supports AVSI Foundation in the management of its portfolio of U.S. Government programs including relationships with the funding agencies and partner organizations. The projects highlighted here are some of the current initiatives implemented by AVSI and partners with technical, managerial, and research support provided by AVSI-USA.

Donor USAID
Partner CARE, TPO Uganda and FHI360
Activity SCORE is a multi-sectoral, family-centered project that reduces the vulnerability of individuals and households through four strategic objectives: improving vulnerable household socio-economic status; promoting food security and nutrition status; increasing child protection and legal services; and strengthening household capacity to access critical services. Each household is assessed in a holistic way at enrollment and on a regular basis during the project. SCORE uses a Graduation model to improve resiliency. To date, roughly 7000 households have proudly graduated.
Beneficiaries 28,700 vulnerable children households
Period 2011-2016 + 2 year extension until 2018

Through both direct service (counseling center) and information (training and communication), this project will achieve results that are mutually reinforcing. The goal is to reduce the transmission of HIV/AIDS by influencing the traditional values of young people and the larger community by providing information about HIV transmission, prevention and treatment.
Beneficiaries 80 youth and adults, both HIV positive and not, seeking medical care in the Alto Gingone neighborhood. 12 traditional leaders in charge of initiation rites
Period 2016-2017

All activities are founded on mainstreaming female empowerment and mainstreaming SGBV identification, reporting, and response, including providing improvements to the SGBV referral system and linking peace response with SGBV response. WAPSS uses innovative methods to identify and track conflict to better allow empowered community members to mediate it in their own way using existing resources.
Beneficiaries 9,124 direct and indirect beneficiaries, including local authorities with a special focus on women
Period 2016-2018
Partnership is at the heart of our work. Our “together” approach to development reflects a way of looking at the world that recognizes complexity, celebrates the diversity of gifts, and values interdependence. AVSI-USA is proud to support the work of these amazing partners:

AVSI Haiti
AVSI Peru

AVSI Rwanda
Crecemos, Mexico
Cardinal Otunga School, Kenya
Fundación Sembrar, Ecuador
Luigi Giussani Institute for Higher Education, Uganda
MASP, Kazakhstan
REBIRTH OF QUALITY EDUCATION
Kampala, Uganda

Partner Luigi Giussani Institute for Higher Education
Activity “When a person discovers herself and understands her own infinite value,” explains Rose Busingye, LGIHE Founder, “everything she touches gains meaning.” This holds true for students, faculty and school administrators, alike. Luigi Giussani Institute for Higher Education is working to drastically improve the quality of education in Uganda through leadership training for faculty and school administrators who bring positive and long-lasting impact to communities.
Results In 2016, in conjunction with Notre Dame University, 250 teachers and school administrators from 18 schools participated in the program.

OCCUPATIONAL TRAINING FOR ADOLESCENTS WITH DISABILITIES
Almaty, Kazakhstan

Partner MASP (International Association for Social Projects)
Activity MASP is a local organization founded by young Kazakhs in 2002 to address the needs of vulnerable populations such as orphans, juvenile detainees and children with disabilities in Almaty and environs. In 2016, MASP renovated two centers and initiated an occupational training program for adolescents with disabilities to increase independence and social inclusion.
Results 30 young people were trained in baking, sewing, woodworking and felting skills.

OPPORTUNITY
Oaxaca, Mexico

Partner Crecemos
Activity Nutrition and good dietary habits are at the center of activities at Crecemos, a community-based organization that integrates academic, nutrition and social programs for nearly 500 families in the semi-urban areas near the city of Oaxaca, Mexico. Children receive more than just a meal, they participate in regular health check-ups and intensive nutritional/hygiene education. Healthy habits are brought home through the significant number of volunteer moms who participate in programs.
Results In 2016, Crecemos integrated activities included exercise, sports, dance and a mobile library that brought books and recreation to over 1,600 families.

JOB COACHING FOR YOUNG PEOPLE
Lima, Peru

Partner AVSI Peru
Activity Young people from the slums of Lima face extraordinary challenges in entering the workforce. Since 2009, Oficina Laboral, a project of AVSI Peru, has been operating in one of the worst neighborhoods in Lima, Cono Este, to address the high rates of poverty and marginalization through targeted interventions in job development and career orientation. Recognizing the need for mentoring during the critical first months of a new job, Oficina Laboral provides job coaching services to help new-hires navigate the challenges of formal employment.
Results The program helped 100 young people define practicable career goals and significantly increased the percentage of new-hires who retain employment.
The refugee crisis in Africa and in the Middle East. The earthquake in Ecuador. Hurricane Matthew in Haiti. These are examples of AVSI-USA interventions in areas of chronic crisis, conflict and post-conflict. Carried out with the invaluable support of local communities and organizations, these actions are aimed at containing as much as possible the damage caused by these situations, carrying out health interventions, infrastructure restoration, and providing education and income generation opportunities for families.

> REFUGEES AND MIGRANTS: AT WORK FOR A CHANGE OF PACE

We are now witnessing an unprecedented global migration: 65.6 million people around the world have been forced to flee their homes. Among them are nearly 22.5 million refugees, over half of whom are under the age of 18. Extending our 2015 appeal, Refugees and Us: We are All on the Same Road, we launched in 2016 the campaign Refugees and Migrants: At Work for a Change of Pace. The main scope of this appeal is precisely to promote a “change of pace”: let’s get to work so that those forced to flee may one day be able to return home.

> EARTHQUAKE IN ECUADOR

The earthquake that shook Ecuador on April 16, 2016 was the worst natural disaster to hit the country in nearly seven decades. At least 676 people were killed and more than 16,600 others were injured and 2,000 buildings damaged. As soon as we heard about the earthquake in Ecuador, we activated the AVSI-USA network in the United States asking for donations for the victims. Our constituents responded generously to our initial appeal and we raised almost $5,000. Thanks to these contributions, we supported AVSI Ecuador to help eight families who had been directly affected by the earthquake and 40 families in the rural area by providing food and building latrines for their houses.

> HURRICANE MATTHEW IN HAITI

On October 4, 2016, Hurricane Matthew hit Haiti, leaving widespread damage in the impoverished nation and disrupting the lives of over two million people. It was the country’s largest humanitarian emergency since the 2010 earthquake: more than 500 people died, around 200,000 homes were destroyed, and 1.4 million people were left in need of humanitarian aid. In addition to the loss of homes and crops, more than 716 schools, numerous health facilities, and existing sanitation infrastructure all suffered damage. As soon as Hurricane Matthew hit, AVSI-USA launched an Emergency Campaign and raised more than $40,000. Thanks to our donors’ help, AVSI Haiti, with the support of UNICEF, was able to rebuild five schools in the commune of Tiburon, one of the hardest hit areas. Initially, the project provided for replacement of school roofs, but since the state of the destruction was worse than expected, each school benefitted from additional work to make them safe and child-friendly. While rebuilding the schools, AVSI also implemented art therapy activities for children in the aftermath of Hurricane Matthew. The goal was to restore, as quickly as possible, a sense of normalcy in the lives of children experiencing trauma after the hurricane.
